MARY MAGDALENE AT THE EMPTY TOMB

She came to the tomb, spices in hand, To anoint the body of the Son of Man. Least she could do for a beloved friend, But what was the point? He'd met his end

She thought of how he set her free, And how he restored her dignity. Tears poured out that wouldn't end, Her heart ached for her dearest friend.

But then she saw the stone rolled away. And angels who told her "He has risen today" Astounded, frightened, she ran from the tomb, They'd taken him away, she did presume.

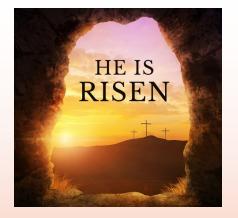

Why wouldn't they just leave him alone, Why take his body? She wept and groaned. Angry at the injustice he had to forgo, She felt a great sadness, then Christ said Hello!

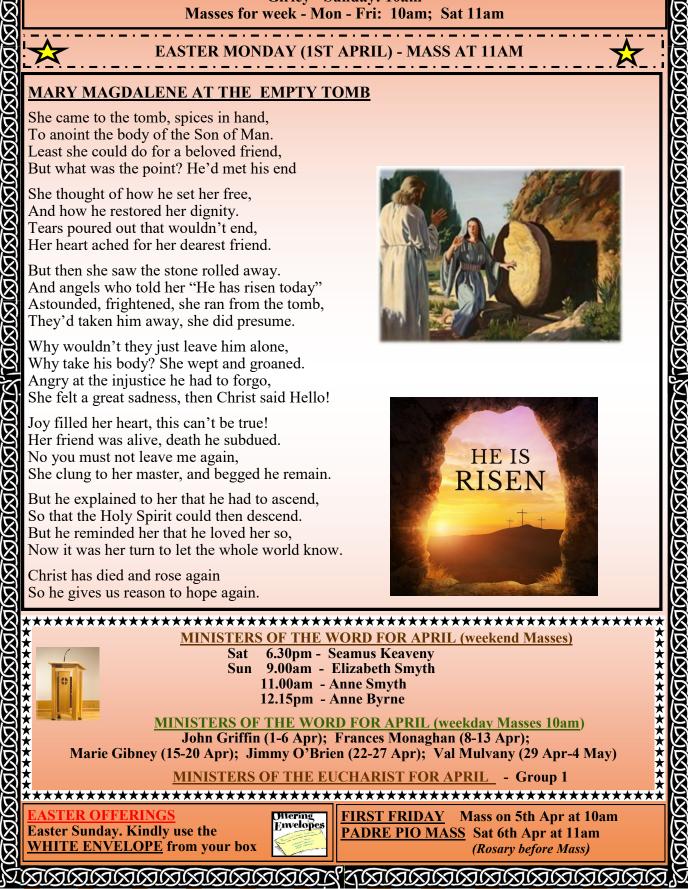

Joy filled her heart, this can't be true! Her friend was alive, death he subdued. No you must not leave me again, She clung to her master, and begged he remain.

But he explained to her that he had to ascend, So that the Holy Spirit could then descend. But he reminded her that he loved her so. Now it was her turn to let the whole world know.

Christ has died and rose again So he gives us reason to hope again.
